THE RANGEFINDER

Volume 51, No. 12

Organized 1935

December, 2011

Meets first and third Tuesdays each month at Bayland Community Center, 6400 Bissonnet near Hillcroft

Toys For Kids—December 6

The club traditionally collects unwrapped toys in December to donate to disadvantaged children. Bring an unwrapped toy to the competition meeting, December 6.

Field Trip — Saturday, December 10 Cold Spring—Christmas on the Square

Come enjoy the sights and sounds of a small town Christmas celebration. We will meet at 10:00 a.m. in front of the Court House on the square. There will be lots of opportunity for photographing people, activities, vendor booths and live entertainment. For those that care to shop, there will be lots of opportunity to do that, too.

Between 12 and 12:30, buy lunch and head to the Jump's lake house in Cape Royal. Gerry will have a pot of soup waiting on the stove. After lunch, you may return to the square or photograph in Cape Royal.

An email will have more information and directions. You must let Gerry know in advance that you will be coming to her home so you can get through the gate. .

Rule Change—High Average Points Awards

At the November competition meeting, club members voted to amend the club rules for the determination of the High Average Points Awards.

High Average Points for each competition will now be calculated based up the total points earned on a member's eight highest scoring images submitted during the club year in that competition.

Before the amendment, a member's cumulative total points on eight or more images in a competition would be divided by the number of images entered to determine the member's average point score.

November Visitors:

Kathleen and Tommy Leonard and Matthew Hyner visited the camera club in November.

New Members:

Henry Nguyen visited and then joined the club at the competition meeting. Henry uses Nikon equipment and is interested in all types of photography. Welcome.

Member News: Connie Danley, her husband Larry, and the rest of her immediate family visited San Diego in September. They attended the graduation of her son, PFC Larry Danley, from Marine Basic Training. And, while they were in San Diego, Connie and Larry took some time to visit the San Diego Zoo.

In late October, Steve Goldberg and his wife Amelia, spent a week in Leakey, Texas, focusing on their other hobby, astronomy. Steve did take a few pictures of the Frio river and visited the Lone Star Motorcycle Museum in Vanderpool. Steve reports that the drought has really taken a toll in that area.

How To: Stitching Images Together

By: Steve Goldberg

How many times have you been at a photo shoot that is out in the open with a nice wide landscape that won't fit in one image? How can you capture all that in one image? The answer is to make a panorama.

The first thing you need to do is make images of "small" sections. Start on the left and see what you can fit in the image. Notice a feature on the right of the frame. Now, move to right so the same feature is now on the left of the frame. This will give the stitch program a "hook" from one image to another. Continue imaging to the right until you get to the end of the scene. Make sure you have that "hook" from one frame to another. This can be done handheld, no tripod needed. If the "horizontal" position of an image is slightly different between the images, that's ok. If you have a zoom lens, don't change zoom, keep it the same. And since you are shooting all the images at the same time, the f-stop and shutter speed should remain the same.

I use Adobe Lightroom and Photoshop CS5 so I will talk in those terms. In Lightroom locate those images for the panorama and select them. Now, right click and select "Edit in" and then "Merge to Panorama in Photoshop...". There are different choices for the type of panorama to make. The choices are: Auto, Perspective, Cylindrical, Spherical, Collage and Reposition. I have only used Auto. Sit back and watch the action as Photoshop does the stitching of the images together.

Once the panorama is complete, you can do the normal editing: exposure, levels, curves, etc. You may need to crop out some "blank area" around the edges. You can do a panorama with as few as 2 images; I have used up to 6.

To see two of the panoramas I have done, I have them posted on my web site:

http://stevegoldberg.net/album/Teton_Yellowstone/slides/Mountain-Range-panorama-web.html and the next image. The first panorama is 6 images, the second is 4. I did the adjustments after the images were stitched together.

So next time you are traveling somewhere and want to grab the "whole" scene in one image, making a panorama is the way to go.

GSCCC Judging

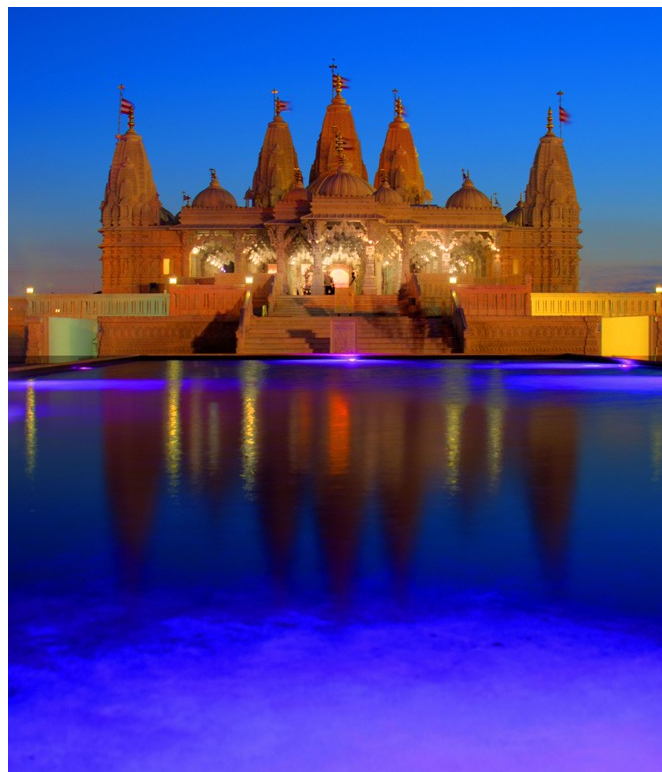

Houston Camera Club has been asked to judge prints and projected images in the February, 2012, GSCCC Nature Competition. The judging is scheduled for 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, February 15, at the Bayland Center. Steve Goldberg, Bob Jump, and Bill Burychka will bring the scoring equipment, projector, and easel. We need additional help to judge, display the prints, and record scores. Please see Denny Moller at the December competition meeting or contact him to volunteer.

All HCC members who are not involved in the judging are invited to come and view the images.

We look forward to seeing you there.
