

Field Trip - March 9

Glenwood Cemetery

2525 Washington Ave., Houston 9:30 A.M.

Glenwood Cemetery, established in 1871, has a naturalistic, romantic garden setting overlooking Buffalo Bayou. As a landscaped park, it was visited as a pleasant Sunday afternoon outing by 19th century Houstonians. The grounds have a diversity of statues and monuments, as well as a view of the Houston skyline. Our March date was selected to catch the spring blooming trees and plants.

We will begin our exploration on West Avenue with Section C and continue traveling counter-clockwise around the cemetery. Cemetery maps are available at glenwoodcemetery.org, or at the meeting.

We will continue to lunch at a near-by restaurant.

Workshop - March 19

Composition Basics & Understanding Color

Learn how to create a well-balanced and focused photograph using simple compositional guidelines, such as Rule of Thirds, leading lines, framing, and perspective. Also, learn to develop an understanding of colors and consider the following questions: What is the relationship between light, exposure, and color? How does color affect composition? How does color convey certain moods?

A Thank You

Thank you Steve.

Photographer Saying:

Even though fixed in time, a photograph evokes as much feeling as that which comes from music or dance. Whatever the mode – from the snapshot to the decisive moment to multi-media montage – the intent and purpose of photography is to render in visual terms feelings and experiences that often elude the ability of words to describe. In any case, the eyes have it, and the imagination will always soar farther than was expected.
